Dear Reader:

This product was prepared by the staff of the Federal Research Division of the Library of Congress under an interagency agreement with the sponsoring United States Government agency.

The Federal Research Division is the Library of Congress's primary fee-for-service research unit. At the request of Executive and Judicial branch agencies of the United States Government and on a cost-recovery basis, the Division prepares studies and reports, chronologies, bibliographies, foreign-language abstracts, databases, and other tailored products in hard-copy and electronic media. The subjects researched include the broad spectrum of social sciences, physical sciences, and the humanities.

For additional information on obtaining the research and analytical services of the Federal Research Division, please call 202-707-9905, fax 202-707-9920), via Internet frd@mail.loc.gov, or write to Marketing Coordinator, Federal Research Division, Library of Congress, Washington, DC 20540-4840.

PREFACE

This report, based primarily on the 1982 census, provides population information on 244 selected Chinese cities. It is intended to serve as a basic reference for urban area studies. The anomalies in the way the Chinese report area population are noted and users are advised to take these into account.

Chinese cities often incorporate sizeable rural areas, their population counted as urban and included in the total for the city. Generally the population of cities is reported in two ways, both in Table 1: (1) a total with separate subtotals for city districts and suburbs; and (2) a total with a separate subtotal for nonagricultural people--those who live in city districts and suburbs but who do not make their living by farming. Particular attention should also be given to cities such as Beijing, Shanghai, and Tianjin, which include the population of city districts that are not contiguous by boundary. For example, Yanshan is a city district of Beijing but it is some 60 kilometers from Beijing's central area, while Minhang, a city district of Shanghai, is located 32 kilometers from downtown Shanghai.

Included in this study are two tables:

- (1) cities in alphabetical order listed under their respective provincial level administrative areas.
- (2) all 244 cities arranged in alphabetical order
